

ABSTRACT

The ability to link dimensions and measure groups in one analysis database to a second database is provided. This feature enables the use of the dimension or measure group without physically creating and managing the contents of the cube so defined.